"THE DAINTY LADY MARY."

A New Washington Novel.

The Washington Herald will begin on Tuesday, October 8, its first anniversary, the publication of a story relating to diplomatic, political, and social life in Washington. The title of the story is "The Dainty Lady Mary," and the author is Foxcroft Davis. The two previous novels of Washington life by this author, "Despotism and Democracy" and "Mrs. Darrell," attracted wide attention, and some of the leading critics of the country said of them that the great American novel had at last been

"The Dainty Lady Mary" is a worthy successor of these two striking novels.
